Product Description

Description: Astabhuja Dancing Ganesha Tasar Painting. A strong expressive way of displaying stories through motifs and design. Hues of vibrant color make the piece outstanding. Perfect for those who want the continued blessing of Lord Ganesha.

Material: Tasar fabric

Dimension(HW): 41x28 inch

Weight: 0.2 kg

Every feature of his body depicts various spiritual significance. His large belly signifies the whole cosmos which he tied up with a serpent. His big head symbolizes intelligence and wisdom. The large ears depict to be a good listener, his trunk above the mouth depicts work more, talking less. The tusk depicts two aspects of life, the right tusk represents wisdom, the left represents emotion. The trident mark on his forehead symbolizes past, present, and future. The broken tusk also signifies dedication towards work. The pasha captures all difficulties and hardship from the path, the prayer bead symbol of uninterrupted learning of spirituality, the goad use to direct the righteous path to move, the laddoo represents the reward for an awakened life. His right leg is slightly bent while the left is resting on the ground illustrating the material and spiritual world. The mouse is a representation of inner desire which needs to be controlled.

Ganesha is in this picture in jolly form, dancing and enjoying. Lord Ganesha always bestows his devotee with utter wisdom and compassion. North, west, and Northwest are recommended to hang the picture to rip his blessing. Whether it is school premises, office, or home the Ganesha portrait is set to complement any décor themes.

Care: Use a soft brush or cloth to wipe the picture.
