How and where we can incorporate the statue of the holy bull:

- Gardens & park areas are places where people stand sit and pass through, place the statue off to the site but still in view, where a bunch of vibrant flowers and bushes is lined up in rows.
- Another way to make it an attraction is by placing it under a large tree in the garden, which makes an illusion of the animal is taking a rest below the shadow of the tree.
- You can make use of two on each side beside the entrance or alongside the pathway of landscape, yard, or garden.

- Stick to simplicity, and complement the statue by bringing flowers and plants into the background, where the viewer's eye will draw automatically to the spot.
- A water feature amplifies the decor to double in number, and incorporating the statue in the large base of the fountain, is a great way to bring wildlife to the garden.
- Time spent out in nature are best, you can easily create the feel by incorporating the statue of a small pond or visible water feature like cascading fountain, self-contained fountain, etc.
- And as all, we know it is used in the shrine of Lord Shiva, if you have a temple in your compounds, where you can also incorporate the holy sculpture.
